GOVERNMENT ORGANS KICK

Accuse the War Office of Delay in Sending Needed Reinforcements to Lord Kitchener—Mystery Surrounding the Operations and the Whole Situation in Natal Forms the Subject of Editorial Protests.

London, Oct. 2.—Within two weeks the war in South Africa will have entered upon its third year and in the face of a recrudescence of organized operations on the part of the Boers and of the impossibility of carrying out Mr. Brodrick's promise to reduce the war expenses by sending home some troops, the government organs are again becoming restless.

There is a mystery surrounding the operations and the whole situation in Natal and the denials and evasions of the war office concerning the alleged friction between Mr. Brodrick and Lord Kitchener form the subject of editorial protests on all sides.

"We have the right to expect," says The Standard, "that the government will lose no time in sending out such ample reinforcements as the military chiefs on the spot deem necessary."

The Daily Mail, which finds evidence that Lord Kitchener is in a difficult predicament, and fears that the government is delaying reinforcements out of a desire to avoid summoning parliament to vote the necessary supplies, warns the government that if this be the case a grave risk is being run. Similar protests are made on all sides.

The Times, after reminding the government of the "repeated blunders and miscalculations which have cost the empire such a terrible price," says:

"A third campaign has now opened in South Africa and there is no sign that the government is doing anything to prepare for possibly the dragging out of the war for several months more. Already it is too late to provide such a mobile force as would be adequate this autumn. Is the government doing anything to provide it even three months hence, and if not what possible excuse can the government urge for this neglect?"

SEVENTEEN ENTOMBED.

Situation at Extension Mine Remains Unchanged.

Nanaimo, B. C., Oct. 2.—The situation at Extension mine remains practically unchanged. Seventeen are known to be entombed in No. 2 slope. The mines are now sealed to prevent the ingress of air and so smother the flames. This is the only possible way of killing the fire and it will take months and perhaps a year to effect the result desired. All efforts have so far failed to prevent a certain amount of air leaking in, and this has, once or twice, caused explosions that have blown out the stoppings. Such explosions on a large scale would utterly wreck the mines and it is feared that it may happen at any moment.

Premier Dunsmuir has promised to find work for at least half of the 500 men who are thrown out of employment. All except two of the victims have families and relief funds have been opened in their behalf. The bodies, of course, cannot be recovered until the fire is extinguished.

MADE GOOD PROGRESS

FOUR WITNESSES TESTIFY BEFORE THE SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY

"Fighting Bob" Goes Over His Interview With Commodore Schley After the Battle of Santiago—Captain Sigsbee, Correspondent Dienaide and Chief Yeoman Becker Also on the Stand.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The Schley court of inquiry made good headway during the day, concluding with Admiral Evans and hearing three new witnesses, although the testimony of one of them was not concluded when the court adjourned for the day.

Admiral Evans' testimony was along the same general lines with his previous statement, but some points were presented in greater detail in response to questions by Mr. Rayner. The new witnesses were Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the scout St. Paul during the Santiago campaign, Mr. Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on the Texas during the battle of July 3, and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who was a clerk to Admiral Sampson during the war.

Captain Sigsbee's testimony covered his communication to Commodore Schley upon the latter's arrival off Santiago, May 26, 1898, and at subsequent dates and dealt with the state of the weather at that period. He was asked a great number of questions by the court.

Mr. Dienaide described the loop of the Brooklyn as seen from the Texas. Mr. Becker testified as to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley.

Evans Finishes His Testimony.

Mr. Rayner began his interrogations by asking Admiral Evans concerning the secret code of signals for communicating with the Cuban insurgents near Cienfuegos. The admiral said that when Captain Chadwick communicated this code to him he did not instruct him to give the information to Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner then questioned the witness particularly as to his interviews with Commodore Schley after the battle of Santiago. The admiral denied having said that Captain Philip had run away or attempted to run away. He said:

"I think Commodore Schley and I discussed the position of the Texas when the fight began. The Texas lying with her head to the east when the engagement began and she turned with starboard helm and headed off in the same direction as the rest of us. She fired first with her short battery and then put her helm to starboard and headed in the same direction with the rest of the ships. I think that was the question I discussed with Commodore Schley. I cannot be sure of it, but that I ever intimated that Captain Philip attempted to run away with the Texas is preposterous on the face of it."

Admiral Evans admitted that at the meeting of May 29 instructions were given in regard to attacking the Spanish fleet in case it left the harbor, but he did not consider it a plan of battle.

Used His Navigator's Figures.

Questioned regarding the discrepancy in the time given in his report and the report of Commodore Schley regarding the destruction of the Viscaya, Admiral Evans said that the time given in his report was furnished by the navigator and executive officer of the ship. He, himself, did not take the time. In regard to the speed the Iowa was making he could only say the ship was going as fast as they could make her go. He thought she must have been going 9 1/2 knots an hour. In this connection Mr. Rayner asked a number of questions intended to show that the admiral's official reports and his present statements as to speed were not consistent. Admiral Evans was also questioned as to his statements concerning the distance the blockading vessels were out at night. He had said that the vessels of the blockading squadron were farther out at night than during the day and Mr. Rayner read a previous statement from him to the effect that at daylight "we closed in." This witness said was the exact fact, that after being out further at night, the vessels came in closer at daylight. He said that in steaming back and forth at night the vessel just ahead could be seen, but not the vessel at the head of the column. The Marblehead could be occasionally seen, but the Vixen never.

The witness said that while before Cienfuegos or on the way to Santiago the squadron had no orders for battle. The officers had no instructions as to what to do in case the enemy appeared.

A Correspondent's Story.

Admiral Evans was then excused and Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on board the Texas during the Santiago campaign, was called. Mr. Dienaide said that when the battle off Santiago began he was in the room of the junior officer of the ship and immediately went on the bridge with Captain Philip, remaining there until the captain went to the lower bridge with him. There he had remained until the chase of the Colon began. He had at the time made notes of the battle and these he read. The Texas was then, he said, heading in the general direction of the Spanish fleet.

He saw the Brooklyn about 10 or 15 minutes after the battle began. She was on the port bow of the Texas and going seaward. Her course was at right angles to the Texas. He heard Captain Philip give the order, "Stop both engines; helm hard starboard." It was a close shave. In regard to distance she was not over a quarter of a mile away. He heard no order to back the engines.

Mr. Dienaide said in response to questions that he had on the day of the battle written a report of the battle, but that these facts had not been given because Captain Philip had asked him to "make it nice for everybody," and this had been his own inclination. He was then excused for the day and asked to bring his newspaper report of the engagement into court in the morning.

Captain Sigsbee's Testimony.

Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the St. Paul during the Spanish war, was next called. He said that in obedience to an order from Captain Wise, who was his commanding officer, he had proceeded to the vicinity of Santiago, arriving there on May 21. His instructions were to report to Commodore Schley that the Spanish fleet probably was in Santiago harbor. He fell in with the flying squadron on the evening of May 26, the squadron then being 20 or 25 miles south of Santiago. He had reported to Commodore Schley that he "knew nothing positively" about the Spanish fleet. He was then asked if he had expressed his belief to Commodore Schley that Cervera's fleet was not in the harbor as reported by Commodore Schley. A controversy arose over the admissibility of the question, and the court took a recess for luncheon before receiving the reply of the witness.

When the court reconvened after luncheon Captain Sigsbee resumed his testimony. Mr. Hanna repeated his question, asked before recess, quoting from Admiral Schley's report of Feb. 18, 1899, the sentence reading: "After having been assured by Sigsbee that he did not believe the Spanish fleet was in Santiago."

The witness replied: "I stated that we had seen nothing of the Spanish fleet. I may have stated that I knew nothing positively or absolutely about its movements, but I recited certain events to show that there was a probability of the fleet being in Santiago at that time."

Chief Yeoman Becker on the Stand.

Captain Sigsbee was then excused and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who served as a clerk to Admiral Sampson on board the flagship New York during the Spanish war, was called. He identified the memorandum from Captain McCalla, saying there was a good landing place near Cienfuegos, which Admiral Sampson sent to Commodore Schley under date of May 19, and said that this memorandum had been carried in duplicate by the Iowa and the Dupont. Mr. Rayner questioned the witness very closely, bringing out the fact that Becker had no records to show that either of these vessels had carried the memorandum and that he was dependent upon his memory in making the statement.

Mr. Hanna said in this connection that the department expected to be able to show that four copies of this memorandum had been forwarded to Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner responded that he would admit one copy and that was delivered by the Hawk on May 23, 1898.

The court adjourned for the day at 4 p. m., with Mr. Becker still on the stand.

WELCOMED TO VICTORIA.

Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York Enthusiastically Received.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 2.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived at Victoria at 11 o'clock and a royal salute from the ships of the North Pacific squadron was the first feature of a long programme of welcome. The royal party made the trip from Vancouver to Victoria on the steamer Empress of India, which was conveyed by the ships of the North Pacific squadron. The warships were dressed in bunting and the flotilla was an imposing one as it steamed through the gulf of Georgia and into the straits of Fuca. The day was bright and warm and the duke and duchess spent most of the time on deck. A great crowd gathered in Royal road and on the heights of Beacon hill as the fleet steamed into the outer harbor and the Empress of India docked at the outer wharf. The royal party was formally greeted by Lieutenant Governor Sir Henry Joly and driven through cheering crowds to the parliament building, where addresses of welcome were presented by Mayor Hayward in behalf of the city; John W. Pratt of Seattle for the British-American citizens, and Presbyterians of Victoria. The duke thanked the people for their welcome.

After the presentation of medals to the South African volunteers, the royal party was driven through flag-lined streets amid great tumult.

Ten More Companies of Coast Artillery

Washington, Oct. 2.—Orders will be issued soon by Lieutenant General Miles, commanding the army, to provide for the addition of 10 companies of coast artillery. The material for these companies already has been secured, but the issuance of the formal order is withheld until arrangements can be made to receive the men at the stations they will occupy.

SECOND RACE OF THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES IS DECLARED OFF.

SHAMROCK HAS BEST LUCK

Columbia Leads at the Start, but the Challenger Gets Better Breezes and Is Half a Mile Ahead When the Contest Ends—The Course Is an Equilateral Triangle, With Ten Miles to the Leg.

New York, Oct. 2.—The attempt to sail the second of the present series of international yacht races for the blue ribbon of the sea proved a dismal failure. The wind was exceedingly light and variable, at times falling so low that the gossamer wind pennants, which are as light as thistle down, hung limp against the masts of the big single-stickers. At the end of four and a half hours, the two yachts having covered less than one-half of the prescribed course of 30 miles and as there was no possibility of their finishing within the time limit, the regatta committee declared the race off. When the gun was fired announcing this decision the challenger was about half a mile ahead of the defender and to that extent the trial was a victory for Shamrock II. But the fluke demonstrated little as to the question of supremacy between the two boats, except perhaps that Sir Thomas's new champion is more dangerous in light airs than was supposed.

The course was an equilateral triangle, 10 miles to the leg, the first leg being a beat due east into the wind. The Yankee skipper at the start out-generalized his adversary in a splendid piece of jockeying, crossing the line in the windward berth 12 seconds ahead of the Britisher. This advantage Columbia held for two hours, while both yachts steered far off their course to the southward looking for a streak of wind that would profit them. Finally Barr declined longer to continue the vain quest. He put his helm hard down and headed inshore on the starboard tack. The Shamrock at this time, after both had been sailing in the same air, was a beaten boat and her skipper could afford to

with fortune. He held doggedly on and fortune smiled upon him. Within five minutes he got a breeze out of the south which ruffled the crestless seas and wafted him like a ghost through the Columbia's weather. But this was not his best piece of good fortune. After this reverse the Columbia, slipping through the seas at an astonishing pace considering the lightness of the breeze, had worked out ahead of the Shamrock, but to leeward. When the two yachts were in this position, about two miles from the first turn, a cant of the wind threatened to blanket Columbia and to avoid such a possibility Barr went under Shamrock's stern. Just as he did so the wind hauled around more to the south, knocking the Columbia's head off until, to the astonished spectators, she seemed headed almost back for the lightship at the starting line. The golden boat, favored by the same breeze, was headed in exactly the opposite direction. Then the shifting wind backed again and Barr got the Columbia straightened out again, a third of a mile behind the Shamrock. In this position the two boats rounded the first mark, the Shamrock three minutes and eight seconds before the Columbia, or a gain for Shamrock in the beat to windward, adding the 12 seconds which Columbia beat her over the line, of 3 minutes and 20 seconds.

During the next hour, in a close reach for the second mark, the yachts were able to cover about four or four and a half miles of the remaining 20, and as only 15 minutes then remained before the expiration of the time limit, the race was declared off.

COLOMBIAN VICTORY.

Cablegram to Minister Silva May Refer to Second Engagement.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The following cablegram from the Colombian minister of foreign affairs was received at the Colombian legation in this city:

"We have obtained a signal victory over the Venezuelan troops that invaded the Guajira under Venezuelan officers and under the Venezuelan flag, without a previous declaration of war."

Some uncertainty exists in the minds of the officials of the legation as to whether this victory over the Venezuelans is identical with that heretofore reported by way of Caracas, in the press dispatches, or is the result of another fight. Dr. Silva, the minister, is inclined to the former opinion. The officials feel very much gratified over the advice. Some stress is laid on the statement that this invasion was without a previous declaration of war on Venezuela's part. This, Dr. Silva says, shows the irregularity of the course the latter country has taken.

AMERICAN JOCKEY BARRED.

License of Lester Reiff Withdrawn by the Newmarket Club.

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 2.—The stewards of the jockey club have voted to withdraw the license of Lester Reiff, the American jockey, and to warn him off Newmarket heath. This latter penalty is generally only imposed upon Welchers. The action of the jockey club followed a hearing of testimony on the accusation against Reiff of suspicious riding of William C. Whitney's DeLacy, Friday last, when that horse was second to Richard Croker's Minnie Lee, ridden by J. Reiff, in the race for the New Barns plate.

It is just a year since the letter of Lord Durham accusing Reiff appeared in the London papers. Reiff then surprised the public by refraining from bringing an action against Lord Durham for libel, but the jockey club completely exonerated him.

The general opinion is that Lord Durham and the other stewards of the jockey club, piqued at the failure of the attack, had been watching for an opportunity to make a case against Reiff, and that, having succeeded, they have forced the hand of the jockey club as strongly as possible against him.

SUFFERED SEVERELY.

Case of Hazing Reported to the Authorities of Missouri University.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 2.—The first case of hazing that has occurred at Missouri university in many years was reported to the disciplinary committee of the faculty during the day. S. A. Thompson was the victim. Under the supposition that he was to be initiated into a secret fraternity he was enticed into the woods, stripped of his clothing and tied to a tree and thrashed with switches. His hair was clipped close to his head by his tormentors, who, after hiding his clothes, deserted him. As it was dark and cold the victim suffered severely as he wandered through the trees and bushes in quest of his garments. Thompson reported the matter and requested an investigation, but as the victim was unable to identify a single student implicated, nothing has yet been done toward punishing the malefactors.

FORE THE SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY

ADMIRAL EVANS FINISHES

"Fighting Bob" Goes Over His Interview With Commodore Schley After the Battle of Santiago—Captain Sigsbee, Correspondent Dienaide and Chief Yeoman Becker Also on the Stand.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The Schley court of inquiry made good headway during the day, concluding with Admiral Evans and hearing three new witnesses, although the testimony of one of them was not concluded when the court adjourned for the day.

Admiral Evans' testimony was along the same general lines with his previous statement, but some points were presented in greater detail in response to questions by Mr. Rayner. The new witnesses were Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the scout St. Paul during the Santiago campaign, Mr. Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on the Texas during the battle of July 3, and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who was a clerk to Admiral Sampson during the war.

Captain Sigsbee's testimony covered his communication to Commodore Schley upon the latter's arrival off Santiago, May 26, 1898, and at subsequent dates and dealt with the state of the weather at that period. He was asked a great number of questions by the court.

Mr. Dienaide described the loop of the Brooklyn as seen from the Texas.
Mr. Becker testified as to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley.

Evans Finishes His Testimony.

Mr. Rayner began his interrogations by asking Admiral Evans concerning the secret code of signals for communicating with the Cuban insurgents near Cienfuegos. The admiral said that when Captain Chadwick communicated this code to him he did not instruct him to give the information to Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner then questioned the witness particularly as to his interviews with Commodore Schley after the battle of Santiago.
The admiral denied having said that Captain Philip had run away or attempted to run away. He said:

"I think Commodore Schley and I discussed the position of the Texas when the fight began. The Texas lying with her head to the east when the engagement began and she turned with starboard helm and headed off in the same direction as the rest of us.
She fired first with her short battery and then put her helm to starboard and headed in the same direction with the rest of the ships. I think that was the question I discussed with Commodore Schley. I cannot be sure of it, but that I ever intimated that Captain Philip attempted to run away with the Texas is preposterous on the face of it."

Admiral Evans admitted that at the meeting of May 29 instructions were given in regard to attacking the Spanish fleet in case it left the harbor, but

Used His Navigator's Figures.

Questioned regarding the discrepancy in the time given in his report and the report of Commodore Schley regarding the destruction of the Viscaya, Admiral Evans said that the time given in his report was furnished by the navigator and executive officer of the ship. He, himself, did not take the time. In regard to the speed the Lowa was making he could only say the ship was going as fast as they could make her go. He thought she must have been going 9 1/2 knots an hour. In this connection Mr. Rayner asked a number of questions intended to show that the admiral's official reports and his present statements as to speed were not consistent. Admiral Evans was also questioned as to his statements concerning the distance the blockading vessels were out at night. He had said that the vessels of the blockading squadron were farther out at night than during the day and Mr. Rayner read a previous statement from him to the effect that at daylight "we closed in." This witness said was the exact fact, that after being out further at night, the vessels came in closer at daylight.
He said that in steaming back and forth at night the vessel just ahead could be seen, but not the vessel at the head of the column. The Marblehead could be occasionally seen, but the Vixen never.

The witness said that while before Cienfuegos or on the way to Santiago the squadron had no orders for battle.
The officers had no instructions as to what to do in case the enemy appeared.

A Correspondent's Story.

Admiral Evans was then excused and Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on board the Texas during the Santiago campaign, was called. Mr. Dienaide said that when the battle off Santiago began he was in the room of the junior officer of the ship and immediately went on the bridge with Captain Philip, remaining there until the captain went to the lower bridge with him. There he had remained until the chase of the Colon began. He had at the time made notes of the battle and these he read. The Texas was then, he said, heading in the general direction of the Spanish fleet.

He saw the Brooklyn about 10 or 15 minutes after the battle began. She was on the port bow of the Texas and going seaward. Her course was at right angles to the Texas. He heard Captain Philip give the order, "Stop both engines; helm hard starboard." It was a close shave. In regard to distance she was not over a quarter of a mile away. He heard no order to back the engines.

Mr. Dienaide said in response to questions that he had on the day of the battle written a report of the battle, but that these facts had not been given because Captain Philip had asked him to "make it nice for everybody," and this had been his own inclination. He was then excused for the day and asked to bring his newspaper report of the engagement into court in the morning.

Captain Sigsbee's Testimony.

Captain Sigsbee, who commanded the St. Paul during the Spanish war, was next called. He said that in obedience to an order from Captain Wise, who was his commanding officer, he had proceeded to the vicinity of Santiago, arriving there on May 21.
His instructions were to report to Commodore Schley that the Spanish fleet probably was in Santiago harbor.
He fell in with the flying squadron on the evening of May 26, the squadron then being 20 or 25 miles south of Santiago. He had reported to Commodore Schley that he "knew nothing positively" about the Spanish fleet.
He was then asked if he had expressed his belief to Commodore Schley that Cervera's fleet was not in the harbor as reported by Commodore Schley.
A controversy arose over the admissability of the question, and the court took a recess for luncheon before receiving the reply of the witness.

When the court reconvened after luncheon Captain Sigsbee resumed his testimony. Mr. Hanna repeated his question, asked before recess, quoting from Admiral Schley's report of Feb.
18, 1899, the sentence reading: "After having been assured by Sigsbee that he did not believe the Spanish fleet was in Santiago."

The witness replied: "I stated that we had seen nothing of the Spanish fleet. I may have stated that I knew nothing positively or absolutely about its movements, but I recited certain events to show that there was a probability of the fleet being in Santiago at that time."

Chief Yeoman Becker on the Stand.

Captain Sigsbee was then excused
and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who served as a clerk to Admiral Sampson on board the flagship New York during the Spanish war, was called. He identified the memorandum from Captain McCalla, saying there was a good landing place near Cienfuegos, which Admiral Sampson sent to Commodore Schley under date of May 19, and said that this memorandum had been carried in duplicate by the Iowa and the Dupont. Mr.
Rayner questioned the witness very closely, bringing out the fact that Becker had no records to show that either of these vessels had carried the memorandum and that he was dependent upon his memory in making the statement.

Mr. Hanna said in this connection that the department expected to be able to show that four copies of this memorandum had been forwarded to Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner responded that he would admit one copy and that was delivered by the Hawk on May 23, 1898.

The court adjourned for the day at 4 p. m., with Mr. Becker still on the stand.

Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York Enthusiastically Received.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 2.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived at Victoria at 11 o'clock and a

North Pacific squadron was the first feature of a long programme of welcome. The royal party made the trip from Vancouver to Victoria on the steamer Empress of India, which was conveyed by the ships of the North Pacific squadron. The warships were dressed in bunting and the flotilla was an imposing one as it steamed docked at the outer wharf. The royal party was formally greeted by Lieutenant Governor Sir Henry Joly and driven through cheering crowds to the parliament building, where addresses of welcome were presented by Mayor Hayward in behalf of the city;

ish-American citizens, and Presbyterians of Victoria. The duke thanked the people for their welcome.

After the presentation of medals to the South African volunteers, the royal party was driven through flag-lined

Ten More Companies of Coast Artillery

Washington, Oct. 2.—Orders will be

SHAMROCK HAS BEST LUCK

Columbia Leads at the Start, but the Challenger Gets Better Breezes and Is Half a Mile Ahead When the Con-tional Ends—The Course is an Equilateral Triangle, With Ten Miles to the Leg.

New York, Oct. 2.—The attempt to make the second of the present series of international yacht races for the blue ribbon of the sea proved a dismal failure. The wind was exceedingly light and variable, at times falling so low that the gossamer wind pennants, which are as light as thistle down, hung limp against the masts of the big single-stickers. At the end of four and a half hours, the two yachts having covered less than one-half of the prescribed course of 30 miles and as there was no possibility of their finishing within the time limit, the regatta committee declared the race off. When the gun was fired announcing this decision the challenger was about half a mile ahead of the defender and to that extent the trial was a victory for Shamrock II.
But the fluke demonstrated little as to the question of supremacy between the two boats, except perhaps that Sir Thomas' new champion is more dangerous in light airs than was supposed.

The course was an equilateral triangle, 10 miles to the leg, the first leg being a beat due east into the wind.
The Yankee skipper at the start out-generalled his adversary in a splendid piece of jockeying, crossing the line in the windward berth 12 seconds ahead of the Britisher. This advantage Columbia held for two hours, while both yachts steered far off their course to the southward looking for a streak of wind that would profit them.
Finally Barr declined longer to continue the vain quest. He put his helm hard down and headed inshore on the starboard tack. The Shamrock at this time, after both had been sailing in the same air, was a beaten boat and her skipper could afford to

with fortune. He held doggedly on and fortune smiled upon him. Within five minutes he got a breeze out of the south which ruffled the crestless seas and wafted him like a ghost through the Columbia's weather. But this was not his best piece of good fortune.
After this reverse the Columbia, slipping through the seas at an astonishing pace considering the lightness of the breeze, had worked out ahead of the Shamrock, but to leeward. When the two yachts were in this position, about two miles from the first turn, a cant of the wind threatened to blanket Columbia and to avoid such a possibility Barr went under Sham-rock's stern. Just as he did so the wind hauled around more to the south, knocking the Columbia's head off until, to the astonished spectators, she seemed headed almost back for the lightship at the starting line. The golden boat, favored by the same breeze, was headed in exactly the opposite direction. Then the shifting wind backed again and Barr got the Columbia straightened out again, a third of a mile behind the Shamrock.
In this position the two boats rounded the first mark, the Shamrock three minutes and eight seconds before the Columbia, or a gain for Shamrock in the beat to windward, adding the 12 seconds which Columbia beat her over the line, of 3 minutes and 20 seconds.

During the next hour, in a close reach for the second mark, the yachts were able to cover about four or four and a half miles of the remaining 20, and as only 15 minutes then remained before the expiration of the time limit, the race was declared off.

Cablegram to Minister Silva May Refer to Second Engagement.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The following cablegram from the Colombian minister of foreign affairs was received at the Colombian legation in this city:

"We have obtained a signal victory over the Venezuelan troops that invaded the Guajira under Venezuelan officers and under the Venezuelan flag, without a previous declaration of war."

Some uncertainty exists in the minds of the officials of the legation as to whether this victory over the Venezuelans is identical with that heretofore reported by way of Curacao, in the press dispatches, or is the result of another fight. Dr. Silva, the minister, is inclined to the former opinion. The officials feel very much gratified over the advices. Some stress is laid on the statement that this invasion was without a previous declaration of war on Venezuela's part. This, Dr. Silva says, shows the irregularity of the course the latter country has taken.

License of Lester Reiff Withdrawn by the Newmarket Club.

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 2.—The stewards of the jockey club have voted to withdraw the license of Lester Reiff, the American jockey, and to warn him off Newmarket Heath. This latter penalty is generally only imposed upon Welshers. The action of the jockey club followed a hearing of testimony on the accusation against Reiff of suspicious riding of William C.
Whitney's Delacy, Friday last, when that horse was second to Richard Croker's Minnie Lee, ridden by J.
Reiff, in the race for the New Barns plate.

It is just a year since the letter of Lord Durham accusing Reiff appeared in the London papers. Reiff then surprised the public by refraining from bringing an action against Lord Durham for libel, but the jockey club completely exonerated him.

The general opinion is that Lord Durham and the other stewards of the jockey club, plucked at the failure of the attack, had been watching for an opportunity to make a case against Reiff, and that, having succeeded, they have forced the hand of the jockey club as strongly as possible against him.

Case of Hazing Reported to the Authorities of Missouri University.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 2.—The first case of hazing that has occurred at Missouri university in many years was reported to the disciplinary committee of the faculty during the day.
S. A. Thompson was the victim. Under the supposition that he was to be derided in a secret fraternity he initiated into a secret fraternity, stripped of his clothing and tied to a tree and thashed with switches. His hair was clipped close to his head by his tormentors, who, after hiding his clothes, deserted him. As it was dark and cold the victim suffered severely as he wandered through the trees and bushes in quest of his garments.
Thompson reported the matter and requested an investigation, but as the victim was unable to identify a single student implicated, nothing has yet been done toward punishing the malefactors.

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA WILL

Sending Needed Reinforcements to Lord Kitchener—Mystery Surrounding the Operations and the Whole Situation in Natal Forms the Subject of Editorial Protests.

London, Oct. 2.—Within two weeks the war in South Africa will have entered upon its third year and in the face of a recrudescence of organized operations on the part of the Boers and of the impossibility of carrying out Mr. Brodrick's promise to reduce the war expenses by sending home some troops, the government organs are again becoming restless.

There is a mystery surrounding the operations and the whole situation in Natal and the denials and evasions of the war office concerning the alleged friction between Mr. Brodrick and Lord Kitchener form the subject of editorial protests on all sides.

"We have the right to expect," says The Standard, "that the government will lose no time in sending out such ample reinforcements as the military chiefs on the spot deem necessary."

The Daily Mail, which finds evidence that Lord Kitchener is in a difficult predicament, and fears that the government is delaying reinforcements out of a desire to avoid summoning parliament to vote the necessary supplies, warns the government that if this be the case a grave risk is being run. Similar protests are made on all sides.

The Times, after reminding the government of the "repeated blunders and miscalculations which have cost the empire such a terrible price," says:

"A third campaign has now opened in South Africa and there is no sign that the government is doing anything to prepare for possibly the dragging out of the war for several months more. Already it is too late to provide such a mobile force as would be adequate this autumn. Is the government doing anything to provide it even three months hence, and if not what possible excuse can the government urge for this neglect?"

SEVENTEEN ENTOMBED.

Situation at Extension Mine Remains Unchanged.

Nanaimo, B. C., Oct. 2.—The situation at Extension mine remains practically unchanged. Seventeen are known to be entombed in No. 2 slope.
The mines are now sealed to prevent the ingress of air and so smother the flames. This is the only possible way of killing the fire and it will take months and perhaps a year to effect the result desired. All efforts have so far failed to prevent a certain amount of air leaking in, and this has, once or twice, caused explosions that have blown out the stoppings. Such explosions on a large scale would utterly wreck the mines and it is feared that it may happen at any moment.

Premier Dunsmuir has promised to find work for at least half of the 500 men who are thrown out of employment. All except two of the victims have families and relief funds have been opened in their behalf. The bodies, of course, cannot be recovered until the fire is extinguished.

OF INQUIRY

ADMIRAL EVANS FINISHES

"Fighting Bob" Goes Over His Interview With Commodore Schley After
the Battle of Santiago—Captain Sigsbee, Correspondent Dienaide
and Chief Yeoman Becker Also on the Stand.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The Schley
court of inquiry made good headway
during the day, concluding with Admiral Evans and hearing three new
one of them was not concluded when
the court adjourned for the day.

the same general lines with his pre-
to questions by Mr. Rayner. The new witnesses were Captain Sigsbee, who
the Santiago campaign, Mr. Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on the Texas during the battle of July 3, and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who was a clerk
to Admiral Sampson during the war.

Captain Sigsbee's testimony covered
his communication to Commodore Schley upon the latter's arrival off Santiago, May 26, 1898, and at subsequent dates and dealt with the state of the weather at that period. He was asked a great number of questions by the court.

Mr. Dienaide described the loop of
the Brooklyn as seen from the Texas.
Mr. Becker testified as to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley.

Evans Finishes His Testimony.

Mr. Rayner began his interrogations by asking Admiral Evans concerning the secret code of signals for communicating with the Cuban insurgents near Cienfuegos. The admiral said that when Captain Chadwick communicated this code to him he did not instruct him to give the information to Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner then
questioned the witness particularly
as to his interviews with Commodore Schley after the battle of Santiago.
The admiral denied having said that Captain Philip had run away or attempted to run away. He said:

"I think Commodore Schley and I
discussed the position of the Texas
when the fight began. The Texas lying with her head to the east when the
engagement began and she turned
with starboard helm and headed off in the same direction as the rest of us.
She fired first with her short battery
and headed in the same direction with
the rest of the ships. I think that was the question I discussed with Commodore Schley. I cannot be sure of it, but that I ever intimated that Captain
Texas is preposterous on the face of it."

Admiral Evans admitted that at the
given in regard to attacking the Spanish fleet in case it left the harbor, but

Used His Navigator's Figures.

Questioned regarding the discrepancy in the time given in his report and the report of Commodore Schley
regarding the destruction of the Viscaya, Admiral Evans said that the time given in his report was furnished
of the ship. He, himself, did not take the time. In regard to the speed the Iowa was making he could only say the ship was going as fast as they
hour. In this connection Mr. Rayner
asked a number of questions intended
speed were not consistent. Admiral Evans was also questioned as to his
the blockading vessels were out at
of the blockading squadron were
farther out at night than during the day and Mr. Rayner read a previous
statement from him to the effect that at daylight "we closed in." This the
after being out further at night, the
vessels came in closer at daylight.
He said that in steaming back and
could be seen, but not the vessel at
the head of the column. The Marble-
head could be occasionally seen, but
the Vixen never.

The witness said that while before
Cienfuegos or on the way to Santiago
the squadron had no orders for battle.
what to do in case the enemy appeared.

A Correspondent's Story.

Admiral Evans was then excused
and Thomas M. Dienaide, a newspaper correspondent, who was on board the Texas during the Santiago campaign,
was called. Mr. Dienaide said that
of the ship and immediately went on the bridge with Captain Philip, remaining there until the captain went

he had remained until the chase of the Colon began. He had at the time
made notes of the battle and these he
read. The Texas was then, he said, heading in the general direction of the Spanish fleet.

He saw the Brooklyn about 10 or 15 minutes after the battle began. She was on the port bow of the Texas and going seaward. Her course was at right angles to the Texas. He heard Captain Philip give the order, "Stop
both engines; helm hard starboard."
It was a close shave. In regard to
back the engines.

Mr. Dienaide said in response to questions that he had on the day of the battle written a report of the battle, but that these facts had not been given because Captain Philip had
asked him to "make it nice for everybody," and this had been his own in-
the day and asked to bring his newspaper report of the engagement into court in the morning.

Captain Sigsbee's Testimony.

Captain Sigsbee, who commanded
the St. Paul during the Spanish war, was next called. He said that in obedience to an order from Captain Wise, who was his commanding officer, he had proceeded to the vicinity of Santiago, arriving there on May 21.
Commodore Schley that the Spanish
fleet probably was in Santiago harbor.
He fell in with the flying squadron on
the evening of May 26, the squadron
then being 20 or 25 miles south of Santiago. He had reported to Commodore Schley that he "knew nothing
positively" about the Spanish fleet.
He was then asked if he had expressed
his belief to Commodore Schley that Cervera's fleet was not in the harbor
as reported by Commodore Schley.
A controversy arose over the admissibility of the question, and the court
took a recess for luncheon before receiving the reply of the witness.

When the court reconvened after
luncheon Captain Sigsbee resumed his testimony. Mr. Hanna repeated his
question, asked before recess, quoting
from Admiral Schley's report of Feb.
18, 1899, the sentence reading: "After having been assured by Sigsbee that he did not believe the Spanish fleet
was in Santiago."

The witness replied: "I stated that we had seen nothing of the Spanish
its movements, but I recited certain
events to show that there was a probability of the fleet being in Santiago

Chief Yeoman Becker on the Stand.

and Chief Yeoman Gustave E. Becker, who served as a clerk to Admiral Sampson on board the flagship New York during the Spanish war, was called. He identified the memorandum from Captain McCalla, saying
there was a good landing place near Cienfuegos, which Admiral Sampson
sent to Commodore Schley under date of May 19, and said that this memorandum had been carried in duplicate
by the Iowa and the Dupont. Mr.
Rayner questioned the witness very
closely, bringing out the fact that Becker had no records to show that
either of these vessels had carried the
memorandum and that he was dependent upon his memory in making the statement.

Mr. Hanna said in this connection
able to show that four copies of this
Commodore Schley. Mr. Rayner responded that he would admit one copy
and that was delivered by the Hawk
on May 23, 1898.

The court adjourned for the day at 4 p. m., with Mr. Becker still on the stand.

York Enthusiastically Received.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 2.—The Duke
and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived at Victoria at 11 o'clock and a royal salute from the ships of the
feature of a long programme of welcome. The royal party made the trip
conveyed by the ships of the North Pacific squadron. The warships were dressed in bunting and the flotilla
was an imposing one as it steamed through the gulf of Georgia and into the straits of Fuca. The day was bright and warm and the duke and duchess spent most of the time on deck. A great crowd gathered in Royal road and on the heights of Beacon hill as the fleet steamed into the outer harbor and the Empress of India docked at the outer wharf. The royal party was formally greeted by Lieutenant Governor Sir Henry Joly and driven through cheering crowds to
the parliament building, where addresses of welcome were presented by Mayor Hayward in behalf of the city; John W. Pratt of Seattle for the British-American citizens, and Presbyte-
the people for their welcome.

the South African volunteers, the royal party was driven through flag-lined streets amid great tumult.

THE Sixth district appears to be furnishing lots of amusement for the political guess writers of the Twin City papers.

POTATOES throughout the country have proved to be a much better crop than was at first predicted and the result has been to lower the market price.

FARMING lands in the Red River valley to the amount of 90,000 acres will be offered for sale during the month of October by State Auditor Dunn.

GAME WARDEN FULLERTON says no licenses to hunt big game will be issued to minors this year. This ought to help some but a bullet proof jacket will still be necessary to insure perfect safety to real hunters in the woods after Nov. 10th.

THE use of Texas oil for fuel instead of coal is being investigated by interested men of the northwest. A Minneapolis man who has been over the situation says three barrels of the oil equal a ton of hard coal for fuel and that it can be delivered in that city for 75 cents a barrel. The coal men claim, however, that it will take six barrels of the oil to furnish the warmth equal to a ton of coal. Even at that the oil proposition still has the best of the argument.

THE St. Cloud Journal-Press finds that Minnesota needs Bob Dunn's services as state auditor for another term "and that it is his duty to put aside his personal wishes and submit to the demand of the people. Dunn has made a great record as auditor, and we believe he is patriotic enough to serve the state for another term. And we predict right now that his will be the only name presented before the next Republican convention, and that he will have a majority large enough to demonstrate that the people of Minnesota appreciate a faithful servant."

HAS NOT SHOWN UP

Contract for Heating Plant in Court House Let but Contractor Has not Yet Shown Up.

The board of county commissioners now in session are in somewhat of a quandary to know just what to do in regard to the installing of the steam heating plant in the court house. The contract for the work was let to the Archamber Heating Co., of Minneapolis, over a month ago and the same was to have been completed before Oct. 15.

The contractors have not shown up although a bond has been filed and the commissioners are wondering if they have flunked.

OAK LAWN GEMS.

H. Sargent has sided and shingled his house.

Mrs. Bixby is suffering with a broken and badly sprained wrist.

The farmers in the vicinity of Jonesville are blessed with a fine crop of potatoes.

H. P. Dullum has his corn all in the crib and he reports a yield of 100 bushels of ears per acre.

There is talk of organizing a new school district in the northwest corner of Oak Lawn. This would be a wise plan.

The Jonesville district has received a nice lot of books and some new furniture. No excuse for not going to school now.

There seems to be a very good demand for Oak Lawn real estate. The John Peterson farm, west of Jonesville, has been sold for a good sum of money.

KATRINE.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Goddard a son.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hunt, a daughter.

Joe Ruttger has returned from his western threshing trip.

Mrs. Clarence Wheeler, teaching in district 27, was home over Sunday.

Supt. Wilson was visiting schools, through this section of the county last week.

Sunday Rev. Parish preached his last sermon for the year. Conference will be held at Brainerd. Hope he will be returned to this charge.

Mrs. Hockridge, of Brainerd visited Katrine, where her daughter Lulu is teaching. She was accompanied by Mrs. Mayo and little Cecil. The ladies had quite an experience in finding their way. R. J. Maghan, their informant, says his directions were all right with one exception, he forgot to tell them to stop. They were however quite pleased with Bay Lake, and had a very enjoyable visit.

The seventeen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Skillings met with a most painful accident. The child was playing about the yard and an ax was lying on a stump. The mother attracted by the cries of the child found the index finger of the left hand gone and the second finger badly cut. The missing finger was found lying on the stump. The child can give no explanation. Other children were about, but seemed to know nothing of the particulars.

BISHOP'S MEETING IN NOVEMBER

Nominations Will be Made for the Position to be Voted On Later.

In consequence of the death of Dr. Spencer, of Philadelphia, there are many rumors among those attending the Northern Minnesota conference regarding his successor as it has been stated that a prominent official in the conference would succeed him.

Dr. Spencer held the important position of secretary of the Church Extension, one of the most important positions in the Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. J. M. King, also of Philadelphia, who has been second secretary, is said to be a candidate for the office left vacant by the death of Dr. Spencer, but it is urged by prominent members of this conference that there is a man right here among them that stands as good a show as anyone for the place. That man is Dr. Robert Forbes, of Duluth.

It is known that Dr. Forbes stands high in the church and was slated at one time for the Bishopric. For the work which Dr. Spencer leaves it is urged by the doctor's friends that he is peculiarly adapted to take up the work of the deceased secretary.

His labors for the past twenty years have been among the frontier churches, and as the church extension is engaged in helping smaller churches on the frontier, it is claimed that Dr. Forbes' experience will be especially valuable.

Dr. Forbes has been presiding elder of this district for a number of years, and it has often been said that his position is not commensurate with his ability. He is a powerful man in the church and many in his own district would like to see him elevated.

A meeting of the Bishop of the church will be held some time in November and at that time a nomination for the secretaryship will be made. Shortly after that the Church Extension board will meet and invariably the nomination made at the Bishop's meeting is acted upon favorably by the board and the nominee named immediately elected.

We have a complete stock of ladies childrens and mens underwear.

AUCTION SALE.

P. H. Newman, the Stock Dealer, Will Sell Horses, Cattle and Machinery at Little Falls on Oct. 9.

An auction sale of horses, cattle and machinery will be held at the ball park in Little Falls, Minn., on Wednesday, Oct. 9, at which a large number of horses and cattle and considerable farm machinery will be sold. The property is from the large farm of P. H. Newman which he recently sold. About 80 horses and over 125 head of cattle will be sold. For further particulars apply to P. H. NEWMAN, Little Falls, Minn.

The Laughter of Savages.

The general impression one derives from the accounts given is certainly that savage tribes are not victims of a sullen despair, but, on the contrary, have a large and abundant mirth. Their laughter and other signs of good spirits are of the most energetic kind. Darwin and a number of travelers assure us on this point. The Tasmanians, Ling Roth tells us, accompanied their loud bursts of laughter with movements of the hands to the head and quick tapping movements of the feet. The loud, deep chested character of the men's laughter is sometimes specially noted. A recent visitor to central Africa regrets that under European influence the deep chested, hearty laughter of the men is being replaced by what is known as the "mission giggle" in the younger folk.—International Monthly.

An Odd Nest.

A correspondent of Cassell's Magazine records a curious freak on the part of some wasps in Gloucester, England.

The wasps were noticed going in and out of a lock which secured a workshop door. The owner of the shop had the lock removed to satisfy his curiosity about the doings of the busy workers. He found a nest inside. The cells were made of mud and were full of larvae. There were several dead wasps inside the lock.

Neighborhood Gossip.

John Connors pinched a fur coat in Fargo.

Fergus Falls has leased the Grand Hotel to Mayor Curry.

W. O. Olson, a furniture dealer of Fargo, was made a victim of a forger.

Guard Willis M. Whitney, of the St. Cloud Reformatory, has been let out.

Stephen Lindsley, porter working in a saloon in Moorhead, committed suicide.

A. Anderson, of Culdrum township, in Morrison county, was accidentally shot Sunday afternoon.

The preliminary hearing of Andrew Hansen, the wife murderer, has been held at Grand Rapids, and he was held to the grand jury.

Fire destroyed the warehouse of the Rush City Mechtantile company, containing lumber, machinery and potatoes. Loss about $6,000.

A newspaper report from Portland Oregon, is that Harvey D. Young, formerly of Duluth, was fatally hurt by falling down a hatchway on the steamer Palatina.

Attorney W. L. Comstock, of Mankato has returned from Fremont, Ohio, where he has unearthed a large fortune for William B. Newman, of Austin.

Several months ago A. A. Abrahamson, of Ortonville, suddenly left home. Saturday he returned and says he has no knowledge of why he left or where he has been except that he found himself walking the streets of East Grand Forks.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Trobec has announced the following changes in the St. Cloud diocese: Father Brender from Long Prairie to Spring Hill; Father Hengarten from Lake Henry to Long Prairie; Father Gratz from Spring Hill to Lake Henry; Father Klein from McCaulville to Chokio; Father John Trobec to McCaulville.

Two new townsites have been opened within a distance of eighteen miles of Bemidji. One is on the new line of the Minnesota & International running from Bemidji to Blackduck, and is called Farley. The other town, which has as yet no name, is being opened by Mr. Street of Bemidji, west of Solway on the main line of the Great Northern.

John Wagoner, who was indicted by the federal grand jury at St. Paul Saturday upon the charge of robbing a postoffice at Black Duck, was ordered sent back to the state training school, as he was only seventeen years of age. Wagoner lives at Black Duck, and was in the habit of going to the postoffice when he needed some change and helping himself from the cash drawer.

It is now a settled fact that the Minnesota & International railway will be built on to Bridgie this fall. There is a possibility that the contract, when let, as it will be soon, will be from Blackduck to Koochiching, though the company have not announced it as their intention to attempt to get any farther than Bridgie this fall. A well known railway contractor is authority for the statement that should the contract be let clear through, cars would be running into Koochiching by July 4th next.—Border Budget.

HAS NOT SHOWN UP

The board of county commissioners now in session are in somewhat of a quandary to know just what to do in regard to the installing of the steam heating plant in the court house. The contract for the work was let to the Archamber Heating Co., of Minneapolis, over a month ago and the same was to have been completed before Oct. 15.

BISHOP'S MEETING IN NOVEMBER

Nominations Will be Made for the Position to be Voted On Later.

In consequence of the death of Dr. Spencer, of Philadelphia, there are many rumors among those attending the Northern Minnesota conference regarding his successor as it has been stated that a prominent official in the conference would succeed him.

Dr. Spencer held the important position of secretary of the Church Extension, one of the most important positions in the Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. J. M. King, also of Philadelphia, who has been second secretary, is said to be a candidate for the office left vacant by the death of Dr. Spencer, but it is urged by prominent members of this conference that there is a man right here among them that stands as good a show as anyone for the place. That man is Dr. Robert Forbes, of Duluth.

It is known that Dr. Forbes stands high in the church and was slated at one time for the Bishopric. For the work which Dr. Spencer leaves it is urged by the doctor's friends that he is peculiarly adapted to take up the work of the deceased secretary.

His labors for the past twenty years have been among the frontier churches, and as the church extension is engaged in helping smaller churches on the frontier, it is claimed that Dr. Forbes' experience will be especially valuable.

Dr. Forbes has been presiding elder of this district for a number of years, and it has often been said that his position is not commensurate with his ability. He is a powerful man in the church and many in his own district would like to see him elevated.

A meeting of the Bishop of the church will be held some time in November and at that time a nomination for the secretaryship will be made. Shortly after that the Church Extension board will meet and invariably the nomination made at the Bishop's meeting is acted upon favorably by the board and the nominee named immediately elected.

The general impression one derives from the accounts given is certainly that savage tribes are not victims of a sullen despair, but, on the contrary, have a large and abundant mirth. Their laughter and other signs of good spirits are of the most energetic kind. Darwin and a number of travelers assure us on this point. The Tasmanians, Ling Roth tells us, accompanied their loud bursts of laughter with movements of the hands to the head and quick tapping movements of the feet. The loud, deep chested character of the men's laughter is sometimes specially noted. A recent visitor to central Africa regrets that under European influence the deep chested, hearty laughter of the men is being replaced by what is known as the "mission giggle" in the younger folk.—International Monthly.

An Odd Nest.

The wasps were noticed going in and out of a lock which secured a workshop door. The owner of the shop had the lock removed to satisfy his curiosity about the doings of the busy workers. He found a nest inside. The cells were made of mud and were full of larvae. There were several dead wasps inside the lock.

It is now a settled fact that the Minnesota & International railway will be built on to Bridge this fall. There is a possibility that the contract, when let, as it will be soon, will be from Blackduck to Koochiching, though the company have not announced it as their intention to attempt to get any farther than Bridge this fall. A well known railway contractor is authority for the statement that should the contract be let clear through, cars would be running into Koochiching by July 4th next.—Border Budget.

METHODIST CONFERENCE OPENED THIS MORNING.

Conference Sermon Preached by

Largely Attended.

The seventh annual conference of Northern Minnesota for the Methodist Episcopal church was formally opened last night, when a reception was tendered to Bishop Cranston, who will preside at the conference, and other pastors who are here to attend the sessions. Gardner hall was packed and the evening was a delightful one for all.

Dr. Robert Forbes, presiding elder of the Duluth district, officiated as chairman of the deliberations, and in his few opening remarks he rein hearing something about some of the more important industries of Brainerd. The main shops of the N. P. railroad are located here. The plant comprises 20 acres, of which some 12 or 13 are covered with buildings alone. The capacity of this plant has been almost doubled during the past two years by the erection of new buildings. Upwards of $400,000 has recently been expended in enlarging the plant and introducing new machinery. 750 men are employed and the pay roll last month aggregated $42,000, but the number of employees will necessarily be increased in the near future. "Among the great industries of the northwest the Brainerd Lumber Co. occupies a conspicuous and leading place. The plant of the company is one of the finest lumber properties of the state. When it is stated that instances where men of the Methodist church within the past year have distinguished themselves in some manner.

Dr. Forbes then called upon Bishop Cranston for the response to the addresses of welcome. The doctor is a man who impresses his audience at once and in his formal talk last evening at Gardner hall he showed his mastery of the oratorical art. A deep thinker who applies all his good thoughts to modern ideas, thus illustrating his points with exceptional clearness. He said it was a very delightful thing to be made welcome. Some of the frontier preachers of the conference, he said, would receive this great warm welcome with peculiar interest and they would make their responses emphatic. He stated that it was no more than the conference expected than to find the door wide open; no more than was expected than to hear the warm words of welcome; no more than was expected than to find a hospitable people who have thrown their homes open to the comfort of the members of the conference. He went on to say that when Mayor Halsted started out by saying he would deal with cold facts, that he had much rather hear this subject discussed than cold facts. He said he waited with anxious thought as the mayor said cold and was afraid he was going to say something about cold facts.

Immediately after the address by Bishop Cranston the anniversary of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational Society was celebrated. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary of this society, was present to give an address touching on the work of this great institution. Before he began his address the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the audience.

This society, through which the work of Christian education among the races of the south is committed by the church, maintains forty-three schools for Christian training of the destitute white and colored people in the southern states. It employs nearly 500 teachers and ten thousand and sixteen students were brought under the Christianizing and enlightening influence of its schools last year.

The census for 1890 showed these startling facts: In the sixteen Southern states there are nearly five millions of the population, ten years of age and over, who can neither read nor write. Of the white people 14.1 per cent are illiterates; 52.2 per cent of the black people are illiterate.

The society has done much to elevate the moral condition of the atmosphere in the south, and it was regarding this work that Dr. Thirkield spoke.

The doctor said that slavery dragged down the white man; no man can put a chain around the ankle of his fellow man without sooner or later finding the other end of that same chain tied about his neck. A man draws his life's capital from his

ed God's blessing on the deliberations.

The conference sermon was preached by Rev. Chas. W. Lawson, of Appleton, followed by the administration of the Holy Sacrament. Mr. Lawson in part said:

"I would take my text from I Timothy, Chapter I, Verse 15. 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.' This text contains the essence, the sum and substance of the preachings and writings of Apostle Paul. It voices very much of the contents of the sacred scriptures. The central idea of the text is literally imbedded in the Bible. First: that central idea is salvation from sin by a supernatural person. This idea is taught by type and symbol and ceremonial and sacrifice and priest and prophet and temple and sacred oracles. And in the sacred oracles we read, 'Thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin.' 'He bore the sins of many and made intercession for the transgressors.' 'He was wounded for our transgressions, etc.'"

"It should be of interest to us to note the methods the apostle employed and how he succeeds in preaching the gospel of this salvation. He believed the gospel was intended for the people of his own race. They were entrenched behind what appeared to be impregnable bulwarks built upon the inheritance of centuries. They gloried in a God-given covenant. They boasted of priests, prophets, warriors and statesmen, of sacrifices, of stately ceremonies, of a temple and of sacred oracles. Over all their Jewish glory the apostle flung a rainbow of hope inscribed upon it from base to base the word 'Better' in letters of light and sacrifices, costly and elaborate. We offer you a better sacrifice, the lamb of God, without a blemish or spot."

"To the dying and the bereaved the apostle gives that sublime epic on the resurrection, and in closing says, 'O, Death where is thy sting; O, grave where is thy victory!' But what is the reward, 'eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man the things God hath prepared for those that love him.' In case we should ask Paul how the gospel is adapted to the Greeks he would reply in a figure familiar to nearly all in the Roman empire, 'All thanks, O God, who leads us in, one continual triumph in the service of the Christ.'"

"In the second place the Apostle Paul believed that this salvation through Jesus Christ to be of universal application. The apostle had accepted this gospel. He had staked everything upon the truths. He had tested it fully. He had preached this salvation for about three decades and it had never failed where fairly tested. The other heralds of the cross bear the same testimony. Hence, with the utmost confidence he could reiterate, 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.'"

"The apostle also has a gospel for the people enslaved by heathen rites and gross imposture. Such were the people of the city of Ephesus, situated at the gateway Roman of Asia. He taught publicly and privately by day and by night. So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed that the stalls and booths and shops where the images or shrines of Diana were deserted. Magical imposture also gave way and bonfires of bad books were lighted.

"In the third place St. Paul's experience was a dominant part in his life. We might almost overlook the last part of our text, 'of whom I am chief.' That means that the apostle recalled the time when he was an enemy of Christ. He is friend now. He is a herald of that gospel now. He has tested it for about three decades and he has had a rich experience. He has dreams and visions and revelations and even ecstasies in the third heaven. But a rich Christian experience comes high. He gave up father, mother, brothers, and sisters and friends and office and wealth for Jesus and the gospel.

"And like the Apostle Paul, I glory in the gospel, and what interests me in the Christian church, in the Methodist church, is its numberless victories for Christ. It thrills my heart. It strengthens my faith and increases my love for mankind."

Before the noon hour addresses were delivered by prominent men who are attending the conference.

Dr. A. G. Knyett, of Philadelphia, spoke on the Church Extension and his address was very interesting, covering in detail the work by this very important auxiliary to the church.

Editor D. D. Thompson, of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago, one of the leading religious publications in the world, gave an address this morning and set forth the many improvements being made in the paper.

Dr. H. C. Jennings spoke for about an hour just before the noon hour. He represents the Book Concern, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and talked of the work of this department. Dr. Jennings succeeded Dr. Cranston in the work at Cincinnati. He is one of the foremost men in the Methodist church in this country and will in all probability be elected to a bishopric at the next general conference.

This afternoon the conference convened again at two o'clock to collect the statistics and to call the list of the standing committees.

At 3 o'clock Rev. William F. McDowell, D. D. gave an address on the "Anniversary of the Board of Education."

TONIGHT'S SESSION.

This evening again the sessions will be held in Gardner hall and the Church Extension will be the subject for the evening. Dr. A. G. Knyett of Philadelphia, will speak on this subject and it is expected there will be a large attendance. Miss Charlotte Hanlon will sing a solo, "With Verdure Clad," from the "Creation."

ected in a happy vein in his characteristic way what he thought it would be possible for Brainerd to do in the way of hospitality, etc. Prayer was offered by Dr. Fielder, and immediately afterward Mayor A. J. Halsted was called upon to give the welcome address on behalf of the city.

After extending a hearty welcome Mayor Halsted said:

"Brainerd is a city of bright and happy homes, of contented, prosperous and law-abiding working people. We are all bread-winners in Brainerd. Ours is a city of schools, of churches, of manufactures, a healthy city, a growing city, a hustler among cities, a city of live, progressive and public-spirited business men, of pretty woman, and—of sand.

"The city of Brainerd, it must be remembered, is barely thirty years old. But during its brief existence it has experienced the usual ups and downs peculiar to most western towns. The growth of the city has been greatly retarded because of the well known fact that most of the smaller towns in the vicinity have been peopled by her citizens. The neighboring villages of Staples, Wadena, Bemidji, Cass Lake, Pequot, Pillager, Pine River and others, were built up by Brainerd people, who left the parental roof to go out into the big world and begin life on their own account. If the state of Virginia, the Old Dominion, is entitled to be called the 'mother of Presidents,' Brainerd has certainly earned the right to be known as the stepmother of frontier towns.

"Poets have sung of the beauties of Brainerd, the 'City of the Pines,' but I wish to occupy your attention for a few moments in a more commonplace way, for I shall speak principally from a commercial or bread and butter point of view.

the capacity of the mill is from 50 to 55,000,000 per annum, with an average daily shipment of 20 cars of lumber, some idea of the magnitude of the business may be realized. The mill is operated day and night, giving employment to 600 men with a monthly pay roll of nearly $30,000. About 600 men are employed in the woods during the winter season, and logs are brought to the mill by rail. A modern planing mill in connection with the mill turns out 300,000 feet of dressed lumber during a run of 10 hours.

"An important manufacturing establishment in Brainerd is Parker & Topping's Northern Pacific foundry. The output of the Northern Pacific Foundry averages 400 tons per month. 125 men are employed and the payroll aggregates about $7,000 per month.

"The new Minn. & International railroad, which was built as a logging road several years ago, pays out about $7,000 monthly to its employes in this city.

Rev. A. H. Carver gave an address of welcome on behalf of the churches of the city. In his remarks he stated that the convening of so great a body of gentlemen in the city, representing such a strong church body as the Methodist Episcopal church, was an honor to Brainerd and he thought it would be a good thing and hoped that all would be helped by their presence spiritually and intellectually. He was sure that all the churches of the city would unite in extending the brethren a hospitable welcome, Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, Catholic and all denominations.

He stated that he had a great love for the Methodist church on account of its long fight in the interests of humanity and God, and there were men in the church whom he had great respect for, men of influence and power. He cited several timely

Largely Attended.

The seventh annual conference of Northern Minnesota for the Methodist Episcopal church was formally opened last night, when a reception was tendered to Bishop Cranston, who will preside at the conference, and other pastors who are here to attend the sessions. Gardner hall was packed and the evening was a delightful one for all.

Dr. Robert Forbes, presiding elder of the Duluth district, officiated as chairman of the deliberations, and in his few opening remarks he re-

in hearing something about some of the more important industries of Brainerd. The main shops of the N. P. railroad are located here. The plant comprises 20 acres, of which some 12 or 13 are covered with buildings alone. The capacity of this plant has been almost doubled during the past two years by the erection of new buildings. Upwards of $400,000 has recently been expended in enlarging the plant and introducing new machinery. 750 men are employed and the pay roll last month aggregated $42,000, but the number of employes will necessarily be increased in the near future. "Among the great industries of the northwest the Brainerd Lumber Co. occupies a conspicuous and leading place. The plant of the company is one of the finest lumber properties of the state. When it is stated that instances where men of the Methodist church within the past year have distinguished themselves in some manner.

Dr. Forbes then called upon Bishop Cranston for the response to the addresses of welcome. The doctor is a man who impresses his audience at once and in his formal talk last evening at Gardner hall he showed his mastery of the oratorical art. A deep thinker who applies all his good thoughts to modern ideas, thus illustrating his points with exceptional clearness. He said it was a very delightful thing to be made welcome. Some of the frontier preachers of the conference, he said, would receive this great warm welcome with peculiar interest and they would make their responses emphatic. He stated that it was no more than the conference expected than to find the door wide open; no more than was expected than to hear the warm words of welcome; no more than was expected than to find a hospitable people who have thrown their homes open to the comfort of the members of the conference. He went on to say that when Mayor Halsted started out by saying he would deal with cold facts, that he had much rather hear this subject discussed than cold facts. He said he waited with anxious thought as the mayor said cold and was afraid he was going to say something about cold facts.

Immediately after the address by Bishop Cranston the anniversary of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational Society was celebrated. Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary of this society, was present to give an address touching on the work of this great institution. Before he began his address the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the audience.

This society, through which the work of Christian education among the races of the south is committed by the church, maintains forty-three schools for Christian training of the destitute white and colored people in the southern states. It employs nearly 500 teachers and ten thousand and sixteen students were brought under the Christianizing and enlightening influence of its schools last year.

The census for 1890 showed these startling facts: In the sixteen Southern states there are nearly five millions of the population, ten years of age and over, who can neither read nor write. Of the white people 14.1 per cent are illiterates; 52.2 per cent of the black people are illiterate.

The society has done much to elevate the moral condition of the atmosphere in the south, and it was regarding this work that Dr. Thirkield spoke.

The doctor said that slavery dragged down the white man; no man can put a chain around the ankle of his fellow man without sooner or later finding the other end of that same chain tied about his neck. A man draws his life's capital from his

ed God's blessing on the deliberations.

The conference sermon was preached by Rev. Chas. W. Lawson, of Appleton, followed by the administration of the Holy Sacrament. Mr. Lawson in part said:

"I would take my text from I Timothy, Chapter 1, Verse 15. 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.' This text contains the essence, the sum and substance of the preachings and writings of Apostle Paul. It voices very much of the contents of the sacred scriptures. The central idea of the text is literally imbedded in the Bible. First: that central idea is salvation from sin by a supernatural person. This idea is taught by type and symbol and ceremonial and sacrifice and priest and prophet and temple and sacred oracles. And in the sacred oracles we read, 'Thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin.' 'He bore the sins of many and made intercession for the transgressors.' 'He was wounded for our transgressions, etc.'"

"It should be of interest to us to note the methods the apostle employed and how he succeeds in preaching the gospel of this salvation. He believed the gospel was intended for the people of his own race. They were entrenched behind what appeared to be impregnable bulwarks built upon the inheritance of centuries. They gloried in a God-given covenant. They boasted of priests, prophets, warriors and statesmen, of sacrifices, of stately ceremonies, of a temple and of sacred oracles. Over all their Jewish glory the apostle flung a rainbow of hope inscribed upon it from base to base the word 'Better' in letters of light and sacrifices, costly and elaborate. We offer you a better sacrifice, the lamb of God, without a blemish or spot."

"To the dying and the bereaved the apostle gives that sublime epic on the resurrection, and in closing says, 'O, Death where is thy sting; O, grave where is thy victory!' But what is the reward, 'eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man the things God hath prepared for those that love him.' In case we should ask Paul how the gospel is adapted to the Greeks he would reply in a figure familiar to nearly all in the Roman empire, 'All thanks, O God, who leads us in, one continual triumph in the service of the Christ.'"

"In the second place the Apostle Paul believed that this salvation through Jesus Christ to be of universal application. The apostle had accepted this gospel. He had staked everything upon the truths. He had tested it fully. He had preached this salvation for about three decades and it had never failed where fairly tested. The other heralds of the cross bear the same testimony. Hence, with the utmost confidence he could reiterate, 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.'"

"The apostle also has a gospel for the people enslaved by heathen rites and gross imposture. Such were the people of the city of Ephesus, situated at the gateway Roman of Asia. He taught publicly and privately by day and by night. So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed that the stalls and booths and shops where the images or shrines of Diana were deserted. Magical imposture also gave way and bonfires of bad books were lighted.

"In the third place St. Paul's experience was a dominant part in his life. We might almost overlook the last part of our text, 'of whom I am chief.' That means that the apostle recalled the time when he was an enemy of Christ. He is friend now. He is a herald of that gospel now. He has tested it for about three decades and he has had a rich experience. He has dreams and visions and revelations and even ecstasies in the third heaven. But a rich Christian experience comes high. He gave up father, mother, brothers, and sisters and friends and office and wealth for Jesus and the gospel.

"And like the Apostle Paul, I glory in the gospel, and what interests me in the Christian church, in the Methodist church, is its numberless victories for Christ. It thrills my heart. It strengthens my faith and increases my love for mankind."

Before the noon hour addresses were delivered by prominent men who are attending the conference.

Dr. A. G. Knyett, of Philadelphia, spoke on the Church Extension and his address was very interesting, covering in detail the work by this very important auxiliary to the church.

Editor D. D. Thompson, of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, of Chicago, one of the leading religious publications in the world, gave an address this morning and set forth the many improvements being made in the paper.

Dr. H. C. Jennings spoke for about an hour just before the noon hour. He represents the Book Concern, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and talked of the work of this department. Dr. Jennings succeeded Dr. Cranston in the work at Cincinnati. He is one of the foremost men in the Methodist church in this country and will in all probability be elected to a bishopric at the next general conference.

This afternoon the conference convened again at two o'clock to collect the statistics and to call the list of the standing committees.

At 3 o'clock Rev. William F. McDowell, D. D. gave an address on the "Anniversary of the Board of Education."

TONIGHT'S SESSION.

This evening again the sessions will be held in Gardner hall and the Church Extension will be the subject for the evening. Dr. A. G. Knyett of Philadelphia, will speak on this subject and it is expected there will be a large attendance. Miss Charlotte Hanlon will sing a solo, "With Verdure Clad," from the "Creation."

excited in a happy vein in his characteristic way what he thought it would be possible for Brainerd to do in the way of hospitality, etc. Prayer was offered by Dr. Fielder, and immediately afterward Mayor A. J. Halsted was called upon to give the welcome address on behalf of the city.

After extending a hearty welcome Mayor Halsted said: "Brainerd is a city of bright and happy homes, of contented, prosperous and law-abiding working people. We are all bread-winners in Brainerd. Ours is a city of schools, of churches, of manufactures, a healthy city, a growing city, a hustler among cities, a city of live, progressive and public-spirited business men, of pretty woman, and—of sand.

"The city of Brainerd, it must be remembered, is barely thirty years old. But during its brief existence it has experienced the usual ups and downs peculiar to most western towns. The growth of the city has been greatly retarded because of the well known fact that most of the smaller towns in the vicinity have been peopled by her citizens. The neighboring villages of Staples, Wadena, Bemidji, Cass Lake, Pequot, Pillager, Pine River and others, were built up by Brainerd people, who left the parental roof to go out into the big world and begin life on their own account. If the state of Virginia, the Old Dominion, is entitled to be called the 'mother of Presidents,' Brainerd has certainly earned the right to be known as the stepmother of frontier towns.

"Poets have sung of the beauties of Brainerd, the 'City of the Pines,' but I wish to occupy your attention for a few moments in a more commonplace way, for I shall speak principally from a commercial or bread and butter point of view.

the capacity of the mill is from 50 to 55,000,000 per annum, with an average daily shipment of 20 cars of lumber, some idea of the magnitude of the business may be realized. The mill is operated day and night, giving employment to 600 men with a monthly pay roll of nearly $30,000. About 600 men are employed in the woods during the winter season, and logs are brought to the mill by rail. A modern planing mill in connection with the mill turns out 300,000 feet of dressed lumber during a run of 10 hours.

"An important manufacturing establishment in Brainerd is Parker & Topping's Northern Pacific foundry. The output of the Northern Pacific Foundry averages 400 tons per month. 125 men are employed and the payroll aggregates about $7,000 per month.

"The new Minn. & International railroad, which was built as a logging road several years ago, pays out about $7,000 monthly to its employes in this city.

Rev. A. H. Carver gave an address of welcome on behalf of the churches of the city. In his remarks he stated that the convening of so great a body of gentlemen in the city, representing such a strong church body as the Methodist Episcopal church, was an honor to Brainerd and he thought it would be a good thing and hoped that all would be helped by their presence spiritually and intellectually. He was sure that all the churches of the city would unite in extending the brethren a hospitable welcome, Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, Catholic and all denominations.

He stated that he had a great love for the Methodist church on account of its long fight in the interests of humanity and God, and there were men in the church whom he had great respect for, men of influence and power. He cited several timely

Largely Attended.

The seventh annual conference of Northern Minnesota for the Methodist Episcopal church was formally opened last night, when a reception was tendered to Bishop Cranston, who will preside at the conference, and other pastors who are here to attend the sessions. Gardner hall was packed and the evening was a delightful one for all.

Dr. Robert Forbes, presiding elder of the Duluth district, officiated as chairman of the deliberations, and in his few opening remarks he rein hearing something about some of the more important industries of Brainerd. The main shops of the N. P. railroad are located here. The plant comprises 20 acres, of which some 12 or 13 are covered with buildings alone. The capacity of this plant has been almost doubled during the past two years by the erection of new buildings. Upwards of $400,000 has recently been expended in enlarging the plant and introducing new machinery. 750 men are employed and the pay roll last month aggregated $42,000, but the number of employees will necessarily be increased in the near future.

"Among the great industries of the northwest the Brainerd Lumber Co. occupies a conspicuous and leading place. The plant of the company is one of the finest lumber properties of the state. When it is stated that instances where men of the Methodist church within the past year have distinguished themselves in some manner.

Dr. Forbes then called upon Bishop Cranston for the response to the addresses of welcome. The doctor is a man who impresses his audience at once and in his formal talk last evening at Gardner hall he showed his mastery of the oratorical art. A deep thinker who applies all his good thoughts to modern ideas, thus illustrating his points with exceptional clearness. He said it was a very delightful thing to be made welcome.
Some of the frontier preachers of the conference, he said, would receive this great warm welcome with peculiar interest and they would make their responses emphatic. He stated that it was no more than the conference expected than to find the door wide open; no more than was expected than to hear the warm words of welcome; no more than was expected than to find a hospitable people who have thrown their homes open to the comfort of the members of the conference. He went on to say that when Mayor Halsted started out by saying he would deal with cold facts, that he had much rather hear this subject discussed than cold vituals. He said he waited with anxious thought as the mayor said cold and was afraid he was going to say something about cold vituals.

Immediately after the address by Bishop Cranston the anniversary of the Freedman's Aid and Southern Educational Society was celebrated.
Dr. W. P. Thirkield, secretary of this society, was present to give an address touching on the work of this great institution. Before he began his address the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the audience.

This society, through which the work of Christian education among the races of the south is committed by the church, maintains forty-three schools for Christian training of the destitute white and colored people in the southern states. It employs nearly 500 teachers and ten thousand and sixteen students were brought under the Christianizing and enlightening influence of its schools last year.

The census for 1890 showed these startling facts: In the sixteen Southern states there are nearly five millions of the population, ten years of age and over, who can neither read nor write. Of the white people 14.1 per cent are illiterates; 52.2 per cent of the black people are illiterate.

The society has done much to elevate the moral condition of the atmosphere in the south, and it was regarding this work that Dr. Thirkield spoke.

The doctor said that slavery dragged down the white man; no man can put a chain around the ankle of his fellow man without sooner or later finding the other end of that same chain tied about his neck. A man draws his life's capital from his ed God's blessing on the deliberations.

The conference sermon was preached by Rev. Chas. W. Lawson, of Appleton, followed by the administration of the Holy Sacrament. Mr.
Lawson in part said:

"I would take my text from I Timothy, Chapter I, Verse 15. 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.' This text contains the essence, the sum and substance of the preachings and writings of Apostle Paul. It voices very much of the contents of the sacred scriptures. The central idea of the text is literally imbedded in the Bible.
First: that central idea is salvation from sin by a supernatural person.
This idea is taught by type and symbol and ceremonial and sacrifice and priest and prophet and temple and sacred oracles. And in the sacred oracles we read, 'Thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin.' 'He bore the sins of many and made intercession for the transgressors.' 'He was wounded for our transgressions, etc.'"

"It should be of interest to us to note the methods the apostle employed and how he succeeds in preaching the gospel of this salvation. He believed the gospel was intended for the people of his own race. They were entrenched behind what appeared to be impregnable bulwarks built upon the inheritance of centuries. They gloried in a God-given covenant. They boasted of priests, prophets, warriors and statesmen, of sacrifices, of stately cereoracles. Over all their Jewish glory the apostle flung a rainbow of hope inscribed upon it from base to base and sacrifices, costly and elaborate.

"To the dying and the bereaved the apostle gives that sublime epic on the resurrection, and in closing says, 'O, Death where is thy victory!' But what is the reward, 'eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man the things God hath prepared for those that love him.' In case we should ask Paul how the gospel is adapted to the Greeks he would reply in a
Roman empire, 'All thanks, O! God, who leads us in, one continual triumph in the service of the Christ.'"

"In the second place the Apostle Paul believed that this salvation through Jesus Christ to be of universal application. The apostle had accepted this gospel. He had staked everything upon the truths. He had tested it fully. He had preached this salvation for about three decades and it had never failed where fairly tested. The other heralds of the cross bear the same testimony.
Hence, with the utmost confidence he could reiterate, 'This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.'"

"The apostle also has a gospel for the people enslaved by heathen rites and gross imposture. Such were the people of the city of Ephesus, situated at the gateway Roman of Asia.
He taught publicly and privately by day and by night. So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed that the stalls and booths and shops where the images or shrines of Diana were deserted. Magical imposture also gave way and bonfires of bad books were lighted.

"In the third place St. Paul's experience was a dominant part in his life. We might almost overlook the last part of our text, 'of whom I perience. He has dreams and visions Christian experience comes high. He gave up father, mother, brothers, and sisters and friends and office and wealth for Jesus and the gospel.

"And like the Apostle Paul, I glory in the gospel, and what interests me in the Christian church, in the Methodist church, is its numberless victories for Christ. It thrills my heart. It strengthens my faith and increases my love for man-ected in a happy vein in his characteristic way what he thought it would be possible for Brainerd to do in the way of hospitality, etc. Prayer was offered by Dr. Fielder, and immediately afterward Mayor A. J.

Halsted was called upon to give the welcome address on behalf the city.

After extending a hearty welcome Mayor Halsted said:

"Brainerd is a city of bright and happy homes, of contented, prosperous and law-abiding working people. We are all bread-winners in Brainerd. Ours is a city of schools, of churches, of manufactures, a healthy city, a growing city, a hustler among cities, a city of live, progressive and public-spirited business men, of pretty woman, and—of sand.

"The city of Brainerd, it must be remembered, is barely thirty years old. But during its brief existence it has experienced the usual ups and downs peculiar to most western towns. The growth of the city has been greatly retarded because of the well know fact that most of the smaller towns in the vicinity have been peopled by her citizens. The neighboring villages of Staples, Wadena, Bemidji, Cass Lake, Pequot, Pillager, Pine River and others, were built up by Brainerd people, who left the parental roof to go out into the big world and begin life on their own account. If the state of Virginia, the Old Dominion, is entitled to be called the 'mother of Presidents,' Brainerd has certainly earned the right to be known as the stepmother of frontier towns.

"Poets have sung of the beauties of Brainerd, the 'City of the Pines,' but I wish to occupy your attention for a few moments in a more commonplace way, for I shall speak principally from a commercial or bread and butter point of view.

"Perhaps you would be interested the capacity of the mill is from 50 to age daily shipment of 20 cars of lumber, some idea of the magnitude of the business may be realized. The mill is operated day and night, giving employment to 600 men with a monthly pay roll of nearly $30,000.

About 600 men are employed in the woods during the winter season, and logs are brought to the mill by rail.
A modern planing mill in connection with the mill turns out 300,000 feet of dressed lumber during a run of 10 hours.

"An important manufacturing establishment in Brainerd is Parker & Topping's Northern Pacific foundry.
The output of the Northern Pacific Foundry averages 400 tons per month. 125 men are employed and the payroll aggregates about $7,000 per month.

"The new Minn. & International railroad, which was built as a logging road several years ago, pays out about $7,000 monthly to its employees in this city.

Rev. A. H. Carver gave an address of welcome on behalf of the churches of the city. In his remarks he stated that the convening of so great a body of gentlemen in the city, representing such a strong church body as the Methodist Episcopal church, was an honor to Brainerd and he thought it would be a good thing and hoped that all would be helped by their presence spiritually and intellectually.
He was sure that all the churches of the city would unite in extending the brethren a hospitable welcome, Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, Catholic and all denominations.

He stated that he had a great love for the Methodist church on account of its long fight in the interests of humanity and God, and there were men in the church whom he had great respect for, men of influence and power. He cited several timely

REBELS AS LEADERS.

Venezuela and Colombia Each Use the Other's Revolutionists. Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Oct. 2.—Advises received here by mail from Maracaibo, under date of Sept. 28, say Venezuela is protecting the Guajira frontier by reinforcements. An expedition composed of about 1,500 recruits from La Vela de Coro, on the gulf of Coro, and Merida, with Vincente Sanchez in command, left here today for some point near Guajira, whence they probably will move inland toward the frontier. The foregoing covers the facts in the case. Numerous rumors are being industriously circulated, but a careful weighing of all information from various sources leads to the belief that the forces of Davila, after their disastrous defeat Sept. 14, wandered to the mountains, pursued by Indians and Colombians. Eventually Davila, with five companions, succeeded in reaching Fort San Carlos, 30 miles north of Maracaibo, a Venezuelan base and political prison, whence he asked that reinforcements be sent to rescue his command, reported to be in distress and danger from the Indians inhabiting Guajira, who, under the leadership of their cacique, Juan Dolores, are fighting on the side of the Colombian government. Clodomir and Juan Castillo, the Colombian Liberal leaders, appear to be at Trinita, on the Colombian side of Guajira, with followers estimated to number from 500 to 2,000 men. It is reported, although without valid reason for belief, that the forces under Castillo and Davila, if rescued from their predicament, and the Sanchez expedition, will attempt to unite or co-operate in a movement upon La Hacha, where Colombia appears to have about 2,000 men under the leadership of Ayama. It is more conservatively thought that Venezuela will not assume the aggressive.

Both the Venezuelan and Colombian governments show a tendency to place at the head of their forces the revolutionary leaders of the other country, in order to give a color of political revolution to the contacts between their respective troops.

BOSSED LATE PRESIDENT.

Stories revealing the president's quaint humor during his last week on earth are being told from day to day in Buffalo. This story comes from one of the consulting physicians who, while the president's condition the early part of the week was regarded as serious, did not wish to see it in print. On Monday, Sept. 9, when every one was happy over the apparent improvement in the president's condition, Drs. Mann, Rixey, Park and Mynter were in his room feeling his pulse and obtaining the necessary data for a bulletin.

"The president kept up a running conversation with us," said the New York Tribune's informant, "and for very good reasons we did not want him to exhaust his strength uselessly. One of the doctors stepped to the bedside and said: 'Mr. McKinley, you must not talk. We have decided you must not talk.' The president's big, dark eyes were bent on the one who gave the order," said the narrator, "and without moving a muscle of his face he said, 'Well, I suppose you gentlemen think you don't have a chance very often to boss the president of the United States, and now you are improving your opportunity.' The shot was so unexpected that the doctors looked at each other in pleased amazement, and when they once got outside the sickroom they all had a good laugh."

VALUE OF OHIO RAILROADS.

State Board of Equalization Declines to Raise Assessments.

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—The state board of equalization decided that it had no power to increase the value of the railroads of Ohio, as appraised, for purposes of taxation. The board was guided in its action by the opinion of the attorney general. A demand was made upon the board by Mayor Johnson of Cleveland that the appraisal of the railroads of the state be raised to 60 per cent of their value as shown by the market value of their stocks and bonds. Mayor Johnson had previously declared that if the state board refused his demand he would bring mandamus proceedings to compel them to accede to it.

Mrs. McKinley's Friends Hopeful.

Canton, O., Oct. 2.—Mrs. McKinley is bearing up well. Her usual trip to the cemetery was taken during the morning and the afternoon programme of a drive was observed. Dr. Rixey said during the day that Mrs. McKinley's condition is such that all her friends are very hopeful that no change for the worse will occur.

Turkish Situation Deplorable.

London, Oct. 2.—The Times publishes the following dispatch from its Constantinople correspondent: "The reports received at all the embassies and legations here from consuls in the provinces depict a situation everywhere so deplorable that an ambassadorial conference and collective action are contemplated."

German Exports Increasing.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—Exports from the Berlin district to the United States during the quarter which has just expired amounted to $9,335,785, or an increase of $1,863,154 upon the corresponding quarter of 1900.

COMING TO MILWAUKEE.

President Shaffer Will Try to Settle the Troubles at Bay View.

Milwaukee, Oct. 2.—Word has been received at Bay View that President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association would come to Milwaukee within a day or two for the purpose of bringing about a settlement of the trouble existing between the Illinois Steel company and the men who are still out on strike. President Shaffer is coming in response to an invitation of the strikers. The trouble is over a question of wages. It appears that the Illinois Steel company is not willing to pay the scale that was in force prior to the strike and for this reason a number of the men who returned to work walked out again while about half the original number of strikers are still at work.

REPUDIATES CONFESSION.

Daniel Greenhill Says That His Brother Is Weak Minded.

De Soto, Mo., Oct. 2.—The confession of William Greenhill that he and his brother Daniel murdered their sister, Mrs. Sadie Ufen, and John Maloy, is repudiated by Daniel Greenhill, who says his brother is weak minded. Caleb Andrews, who was held as an accessory to the murder, has been admitted to bond, he being practically exonerated in William Greenhill's confession of actual participation in the crime.

Charged With Bucketshopping.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—J. F. Blessing of St. Louis has been expelled from the Chicago board of trade by the board of directors on a charge of conducting a "bucketshop" brokerage business in St. Louis. Blessing was a member of the firm of Gaylord, Blessing & Co.

Statement of September Coinage.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The monthly statement of the director of the mint shows the total coinage executed at the mints of the United States during September, 1901, was $8,160,491, as follows: Gold, $4,100,177; silver, $3,899,524; minor coins, 160,790.

September Receipts and Expenditures.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The monthly statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for September, 1901, the receipts amounted to $44,454,422, and the expenditures to $32,310,736, leaving a surplus for the month of $12,123,686.

REBELS AS LEADERS.

Venezuela and Colombia Each Use the Other's Revolutionists.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Oct. 2.—Advices received here by mail from Maracaibo, under date of Sept. 28, say Venezuela is protecting the Guajira frontier by reinforcements. An expedition composed of about 1,500 recruits from La Vela de Coro, on the gulf of Coro, and Merida, with Vincente Sanchez in command, left here today for some point near Guajira, whence they probably will move inland toward the frontier. The foregoing covers the facts in the case. Numberless rumors are being industriously circulated, but a careful weighing of all information from various sources leads to the belief that the forces of Davila, after their disastrous defeat Sept. 14, wandered to the mountains, pursued by Indians and Colombians. Eventually Davila, with five companions, succeeded in reaching Fort San Carlos, 30 miles north of Maracaibo, a Venezuelan base and political prison, whence he asked that reinforcements be sent to rescue his command, reported to be in distress and danger from the Indians inhabiting Guajira, who, under the leadership of their cacique, Juan Dolores, are fighting on the side of the Colombian government. Clodomir and Juan Castillo, the Colombian Liberal leaders, appear to be at Trinita, on the Colombian side of Guajira, with followers estimated to number from 500 to 2,000 men. It is reported, although without valid reason for belief, that the forces under Castillo and Davila, if rescued from their predicament, and the Sanchez expedition, will attempt to unite or co-operate in a movement upon La Hacha, where Colombia appears to have about 2,000 men under the leadership of Ayama. It is more conservatively thought that Venezuela will not assume the aggressive.

Both the Venezuelan and Colombian governments show a tendency to place at the head of their forces the revolutionary leaders of the other country. In order to give a color of political revolution to the contacts between their respective troops.

Stories revealing the president's quaint humor during his last week on earth are being told from day to day in Buffalo. This story comes from one of the consulting physicians who, while the president's condition the early part of the week was regarded as serious, did not wish to see it in print. On Monday, Sept. 9, when every one was happy over the apparent improvement in the president's condition, Drs. "The president kept up a running conversation with us," said the New York Tribune's informant, "and for very good reasons we did not want him to exhaust his strength uselessly. One of the doctors stepped to the bedside and said: 'Mr. McKinley, you must not talk. We have decided you must not talk.' The president's big, dark eyes were bent on the one who gave the order," said the narrator, "and without moving a muscle of his face he said, 'Well, I suppose you gentlemen think you don't have a chance very often to boss the president of the United States, and now you are improving your opportunity.' The shot was so unexpected that the doctors looked at each other in pleased amazement, and when they once got outside the sickroom they all had a good laugh."

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—The state board of equalization decided that it had no power to increase the value of the railroads of Ohio, as appraised, for purposes of taxation. The board was guided in its action by the opinion of the attorney general. A demand was made upon the board by Mayor Johnson of Cleveland that the appraisal of the railroads of the state be raised to 60 per cent of their value as shown by the market value of their stocks and bonds. Mayor Johnson had previously declared that if the state board refused his demand he would bring mandamus proceedings to compel them to accede to it.

Mrs. McKinley's Friends Hopeful.

Canton, O., Oct. 2.—Mrs. McKinley is bearing up well. He usual trip to the cemetery was taken during the morning and the afternoon programme of a drive was observed. Dr. Rixey said during the day that Mrs. McKinley's condition is such that all her friends are very hopeful that no change for the worse will occur.

German Exports Increasing.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—Exports from the Berlin district to the United States during the quarter which has just expired amounted to $9,335,785, or an increase of $1,862,154 upon the corresponding quarter of 1900.

COMING TO MILWAUKEE.

President Shaffer Will Try to Settle the Troubles at Bay View.

Milwaukee, Oct. 2.—Word has been received at Bay View that President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association would come to Milwaukee within a day or two for the purpose of bringing about a settlement of the trouble existing between the Illinois Steel company and the men who are still out on strike. President Shaffer is coming in response to an invitation of the strikers. The trouble is over a question of wages. It appears that the Illinois Steel company is not willing to pay the scale that was in force prior to the strike and for this reason a number of the men who returned to work walked out again while about half the original number of strikers are still at work.

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, Oct. 2.—Advices received here by mail from Maracaibo, under date of Sept. 23, say Venezuela is protecting the Guajira frontier by reinforcements. An expedition composed of about 1,500 recruits from La Vela de Coro, on the gulf of Coro, and Merida, with Vicente Sanchez in command, left here today for some point near Guajira, whence they probably will move inland toward the frontier. The foregoing covers the facts in the case. Numerous rumors are being industriously circulated, but a careful weighing of all information from various sources leads to the belief that the forces of Davila, after their disastrous defeat Sept. 14, wandered to the mountains, pursued by Indians and Colombians. Eventually Davila, with five companions, succeeded in reaching Fort San Carlos, 30 miles north of Maracaibo, a Venezuelan base and political prison, whence he asked that reinforcements be sent to rescue his command, reported to be in distress and danger from the Indians inhabiting Guajira, who, under the leadership of their cacique, Juan Dolores, are fighting on the side of the Colombian government. Clodomir and Juan Castillo, the Colombian Liberal leaders, appear to be at Trinita, on the Colombian side of Guajira, with followers estimated to number from 500 to 2,000 men. It is reported, although without valid reason for belief, that the forces under Castillo and Davila, if rescued from their predicament, and the Sanchez expedition, will attempt to unite or co-operate in a movement upon La Hacha, where Colombia appears to have about 2,000 men under the leadership of Ayama. It is more conservatively thought that Venezuela will not assume the aggressive.

Both the Venezuelan and Colombian governments show a tendency to place at the head of their forces the revolutionary leaders of the other country, in order to give a color of political revolution to the contacts between their respective troops.

Stories revealing the president's quaint humor during his last week on earth are being told from day to day in Buffalo. This story comes from one of the consulting physicians who, while the president's condition the early part of the week was regarded as serious, did not wish to see it in print. On Monday, Sept. 9, when every one was happy over the apparent improvement in the president's condition, Mrs. Mann, Rixey, Park and Myer were in his room feeling his pulse and obtaining the necessary data for a bulletin.

"The president kept up a running conversation with us," said the New York Tribune's informant, "and for very good reasons we did not want him to exhaust his strength uselessly. One of the doctors stepped to the bedside and said: 'Mr. McKinley, you must not talk. We have decided you must not talk.' The president's big, dark eyes were bent on the one who gave the order," said the narrator, "and without moving a muscle of his face he said, 'Well, I suppose you gentlemen think you don't have a chance very often to boss the president of the United States, and now you are improving your opportunity.' The shot was so unexpected that the doctors looked at each other in pleased amazement, and when they once got outside the sickroom they all had a good laugh."
